Item Description FIELD

Site Data

This field is arable and at the time the time of inspection had been cleared, harrowed and sown with rape. It is undulating with a general slope to the north and a long shallow depression running east west. The boundaries are all hedges with the north eastern boundary contiguous with part of Preston Bottom lane. In the south west corner of the field set in the hedge at GR 43660 458691 is what appears to be an eroded boundary stone standing 0.65m high and measuring 0.4m wide at the base. This may be the one marked on the map and which stands on the parish boundary which bisects the field diagonally to the north west. There appear to be no other features of archaeological interest.

History Summary

The field has remained unchanged from the early 21st century until the early 1970's when it was divided into 2 fields. No further changes occur in the period to the late 19th century but by the mid 19th century the field no longer exists.
