Site Data

The site of a disused sandstone quarry forming a rough circle approximately 15m in diameter. The exposed quarry face stands approximately 3m high and is approximately 14m in length. It faces east. The site is situated in a private garden and has been cultivated as a garden feature with turf cover on the floor and shrubs and trees although at the time of inspection was partially overgrown. It most probably predates the 19th century.

History Summary

The feature is recorded on maps from the late 19th century until the early 21st century. On earliest map named as Old quarries so much earlier than the late 19th century.
