Item Description QUARRY

Site Data

Quarry not accessible and only seen through trees. It is situated at the lower part of the south facing slope of Coney Garth and in a strip of woodland overlooking the houses below. It is largely obscured by trees and lesser vegetation. The quarry is very large and deep, cut into the hillside with the exposed but weathered faces standing up to 15metres high. It is composed of a hard coarse lower plumpton grit stone and is possibly the source of the building stone for the houses in Scriven Village. The field above the quarry which lies on the limestone has deeper soil which can be ploughed. At the time of inspection it had been sown with winter Barley. The soil is light at the eastern end but becomes gravely at the western extent which accords with sand pits which lie just beyond it down the slope at this point.

History Summary

A quarry, probably working in the mid 19th century but by beginning of 20th Centurt was disused. Has remained in that state to early 21st Century.
