Description

Stamped, flat sectioned copper alloy mount dating from the Post Medieval period. The mount probably fitted onto a strap by means of the integral tags which curve backwards from the face. In plan, the mount is rectangular with an ovoid terminal. The attaching tag is sub triangular on the ovoid terminal; it is rectangular in plan with a curved terminal the the opposite end. Decoration on this mount is no longer discernible due to heavy corrosion. There are some traces of silvering on the reverse of the object.
